

Diploma

A diploma is a paper that says you have completed high school successfully. You will receive one when you graduate from high school.

The requirements for college acceptance are much higher than the requirements for high school graduation. For example, you can earn a high school diploma if you get a D in every class, but you would never get accepted to a university.